Standards & Regulatory Alignment Report

How WholeMind Resilience's services are mapped to HSE, NICE and NHS standards, and designed to help employers meet them

This report maps WholeMind Resilience's services against six current, authoritative UK sources: the Health and Safety Executive's Management Standards, NICE NG13 (Workplace health: management practices), NICE NG212 (Mental wellbeing at work), NICE QS147 (Healthy workplaces quality standard), NICE NG146 (Workplace health: long-term sickness absence and capability to work), and the new NHS Staff Standards (published 6 July 2026). Prepared July 2026; updated October 2026.

1. The six source frameworks

- HSE Management Standards for work-related stress: HSE's recommended approach to meeting the legal duty, under the Health and Safety at Work etc Act 1974, to assess and act on work-related stress risk. They cover six risk areas: demands, control, support, relationships, role and change.
- NICE NG13, Workplace health: management practices (2015, updated 2016) — recommendations on organisational commitment, senior leadership, line management, fairness, participation, training and job design.
- NICE NG212, Mental wellbeing at work (2022) — the definitive UK evidence-based guideline on preventing and improving workplace mental health, including specific recommendations on mindfulness, high-risk occupations and manager training.
- NICE QS147, Healthy workplaces: improving employee mental and physical health and wellbeing (2017, updated March 2022) — the quality standard built on NG13 and NG212, setting four priority statements for measuring good practice.
- NICE NG146, Workplace health: long-term sickness absence and capability to work (2019) — recommendations on keeping in touch, workplace adjustments, early intervention and sustainable return to work, including phased return.
- NHS Staff Standards (Department of Health and Social Care / NHS England, published 6 July 2026) — the first nationally required, measured standards for NHS employers, covering line management, health and wellbeing, violence prevention, sexual safety, tackling racism and flexible working. Currently applies to secondary care (acute, mental health, ambulance and community healthcare), with extension to primary care being considered.

2. WholeMind Resilience's services mapped to specific criteria

Each of WholeMind Resilience's services is mapped to the specific numbered recommendation, statement or standard it supports, and is designed to help employers meet it — not just a general thematic match.

Mindfulness Tuition, CMR Courses & Meditation Sessions

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.6.4 — mindfulness, yoga or meditation on an ongoing basis, group or online
NICE NG212	1.7.4 — mindfulness training as a named option for at-risk employees
NICE NG13	1.9.6 — tailored training including opportunities for reflection
NHS Staff Standards	Health and wellbeing standard — "evidence-based and needs-driven local health and wellbeing approach"

Compassion-Based Reflective Practice

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.2.1 — foster a positive, compassionate and inclusive workplace environment
NICE NG212	1.5.6 — encourage managers to address their own mental health, including peer support
NICE QS147	Statement 2 — "Employees are managed by people who support their health and wellbeing."
NHS Staff Standards	Line management standard — "supportive, fair, developmental and compassionate line management"
NHS Staff Standards	Staff should expect their manager to treat them "fairly, with respect and compassion"

Workshops: Stress, Burnout & Vicarious Trauma

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.1.4 — stress risk assessment for each role (statutory requirement). Workshops support employers in acting on the stress risk the assessment identifies
NICE NG212	1.8 — organisational-level approaches for high-risk occupations; vicarious trauma training supports 1.8.3, task-focused skills training to prepare staff for predictable, stressful events
NICE NG13	1.9.1, 1.9.3 — line manager training to recognise and respond to stress and mental health issues
NICE QS147	Statement 3 — "Employees are managed by people who are trained to recognise and support them when they are experiencing stress."
HSE	Management Standards — directly addresses the 'demands' and 'support' risk categories

CMR for Phased Return

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.7.2 — organisational support for employees identified as at risk, including flexible working and changes to role
NICE NG13	1.1.6 — avoiding return-to-work processes that encourage presenteeism

NICE NG146	1.3.3 — phased return as an agreed workplace adjustment; 1.4.2 — adjustments recorded in a written return-to-work plan; 1.6.1 — early interventions and support services
NHS Staff Standards	Health and wellbeing standard — "access to occupational health and wellbeing support, with recommendations acted upon". CMR is available to staff identified through occupational health or their organisation as needing support; it complements occupational health and does not replace it

Safe Leader Space

NICE NG212	1.5.6 — managers addressing their own mental health needs
NICE NG13	1.6.5–1.6.6 — leaders displaying positive behaviours and acting as role models for health and wellbeing
NICE QS147	Statement 2 — "Employees are managed by people who support their health and wellbeing."
NHS Staff Standards	Line management standard — supportive, fair, developmental and compassionate line management, enabled by employer support for line managers

Scalable Neighbourhood Prevention & Community Workshops

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.3.1 — use of external expertise from the voluntary, charity and social enterprise sector
NICE NG212	1.10.2 — local/regional engagement with voluntary, charity and social enterprises on wellbeing strategy

3. Cross-cutting themes

Prevention

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.1.2 — "adopt a preventive and proactive strategic approach to mental wellbeing at work"
NICE NG212	1.11.2 — preventive approach specifically for SMEs; WholeMind Resilience works with SME and VCSE employers
NHS Staff Standards	Health and wellbeing standard — "a preventative, data driven and accountable approach to staff health and wellbeing"

Compassion

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.2.1 — foster a positive, compassionate and inclusive workplace environment
NHS Staff Standards	Line management standard — compassionate line management as a named, measured expectation

Evidence-informed approaches

Source	Specific criteria
NICE NG212	1.1.7 — use a validated measure of mental wellbeing (e.g. WEMWBS) — directly matches WholeMind Resilience's own assessment approach, using licensed WEMWBS and SWEMWBS
NHS Staff Standards	Health and wellbeing standard — "evidence-based and needs-driven local health and wellbeing approach shaped by staff feedback, data and partnership working"

Long-term conditions and reasonable adjustment

A direct, current match worth highlighting on its own: the NHS Staff Standards explicitly require "reasonable adjustments for disabled staff and those with long-term conditions" as part of the health and wellbeing standard — the same population WholeMind Resilience's own community survey found most strongly represented (62% of respondents) and most receptive to condition-specific support (96% likely to use it).

4. HSE Management Standards — direct mapping

HSE risk category	WholeMind Resilience service addressing it
Demands	Workshops on stress/burnout; CMR courses building coping capacity
Control	Reflective practice building self-awareness and agency
Support	Compassion-Based Reflective Practice; Safe Leader Space; peer/group delivery model
Relationships	Group-based delivery format itself, building peer connection and reducing isolation
Role	Workshops addressing role clarity and vicarious trauma specific to high-demand roles
Change	CMR for Phased Return; workshops and CMR as transition support for staff through periods of change
